Travel Must-Haves to the Rescue

COMPILED BY JASON DEHART

Traveling is stressful these days as long lines at baggage check-in, security, flight delays and cancellations, lost luggage and traffic jams all add to the anxiety.

IN CHARGE
 With the Power Station Traveler ($32.99), up to three devices can charge while you drive. With a special AC adapter (15.99) it works with a regular wall socket, too.

You might not have control over these problems, but being well organized and well equipped can prevent a lot of self-imposed stress. That's where new technology comes into play. Cableorganizer.com has a few new gadgets that can provide the travel preparedness solutions you seek.

One such device is the Power Station Traveler, a multi-gadget charging device that can power up your cell phone, iPod or GameBoy. The Power Station Traveler can charge up to three small portable devices simultaneously and allows you to tote fully functional electronics with ease.

Other handy – but not very technical – items to have on hand are Velcro ties, cable wraps and cinch straps. These low-tech helpers can fasten and secure travel items and assure that they remain neat, orderly and in good condition upon arrival. They even come in different colors, making color-coding your kit easy and quick. Go to cableorganizer.com/cableties-wrap-clips/ for more.
