

Keep smoke detectors working properly

With their proven ability to double your family's chance of surviving a residential fire, smoke detectors are one of the most valuable fire safety tools on the market — yet we tend to take them for granted. As with other appliances, some maintenance is required, to make sure they perform when needed.

To ensure the best smoke detection possible, CableOrganizer.com offers these easy tips for keeping household smoke alarms tuned up, properly powered, and ready for action:

- Clean all detectors in your home at least twice a year.
- Set a standing annual date to replace the battery in each smoke alarm.
- Replace all household smoke detectors every 10 years.
- Test smoke detectors monthly by pressing their “test” buttons.

Consumers may order a wide selection of smoke and carbon monoxide detectors online at <http://CableOrganizer.com> or by calling 1-866-222-0030

RUSTY TERRY, THE TENNESSEAN

