

HOME SAFETY

Baby-proofing the high-tech home

As more electronic gadgets make their way into homes, so do potential hazards for curious children. Dangling cords and jumbled wires pose both electrical and noggin-knocking risks.

A new high-tech child-safety kit from CableOrganizer.com groups together more than 100 individual items intended to make baby-proofing a breeze.

The package includes several Cord-It winders for bundling and tucking away wires, 100 releasable cable ties and several electricity-focused safety gadgets for concealing outlets. It also comes with drawer-cabinet latches and a set of soft corners to cushion edges of coffee tables. It's an original and useful shower gift for the mom-to-be.

Child Safety Kit, $57.84 plus shipping, cableorganizer.com/child-safety-kit

Erin Covert

