

Visit this weekend's Expo to learn about retiring in the South

Tired of the ever higher-taxes, high cost of living, traffic congestion and bad weather? There are sources available to help you get the answers you need to make the right choices about where to spend your retirement years.

Like most of us in the 55+ age group, we have been struggling with two questions: Where are we going to retire? and second, Can we afford to retire given the current economic conditions? It just so happens, in town this weekend March 3rd - 4th, you can find answers to both of these questions and many more by going to The Ideal Living Resort & Retirement Expo at the Ritz-Carlton at Tysons Corner in McLean, Virginia.

You can afford to retire now. The general decline in housing prices does not mean you need to put off selling your home and moving to a lower cost, warmer area. Homebuilders throughout the South have vigorously responded to current market demands: affordable pricing, smaller homes with open floor plans, but with the amenities that we all want.

Since 1989, the Expo has provided retirees the ability to meet with community representatives and obtain information on dozens of retirement communities under one roof! Speak with retirement, financial and lifestyle experts who can help you choose which retirement location is just right for you. The Expo's publication, "Choose Your Ideal Place to Retire," free to all those who attend the expo, provides a detailed and comprehensive comparison of over 100 communities in 14 states and 4 international locations.

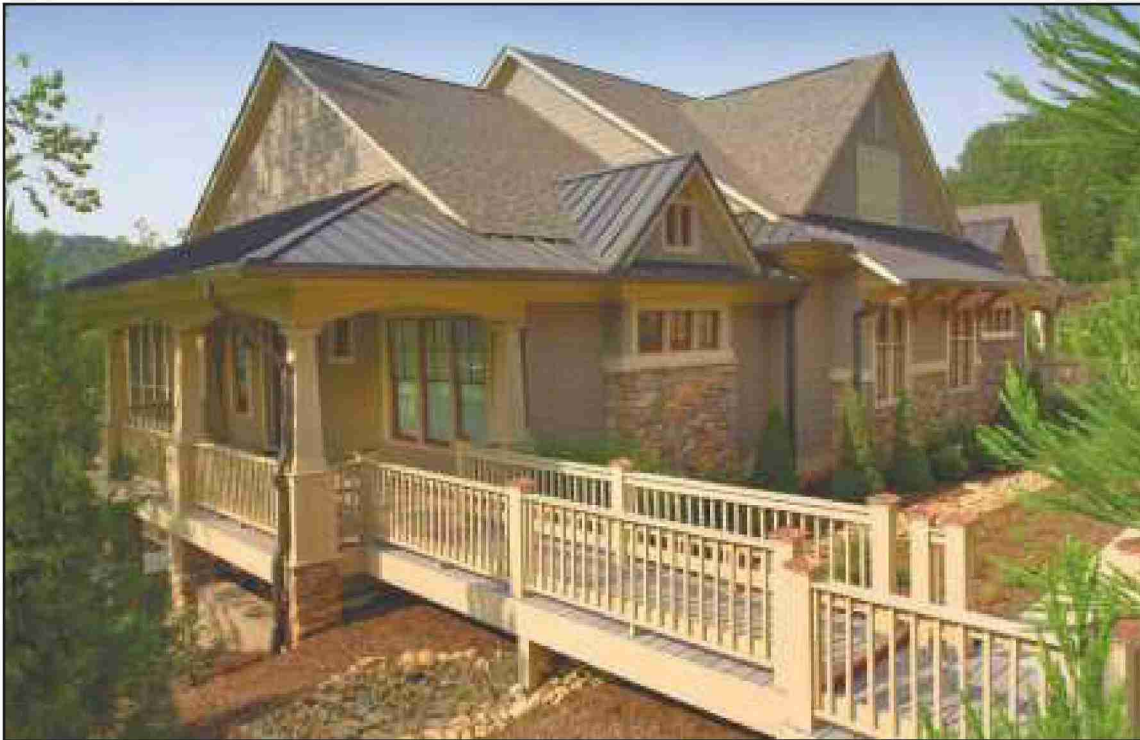

Learn how easy relocating can be during one of the many popular seminars like: Top Tips to Sell Your Home in a tough market, Choose Your Ideal Place to Retire and Smart New Home Trends. The Expo is an excellent comprehensive source of information to ensure a comfortable and affordable retirement.

Invest in a well spent day getting your questions answered and having fun, too - the Expo offers free wine tasting, mimosas, and a Taste of the South luncheon which has a moderate cover charge.

Expo attendees can take advantage of special, low-cost discovery getaway packages to many of the communities present at this weekend's expo. RSVP at IdealShows.com or call 888-827-6993 for more information and to RSVP.

All this, and admission is free, if you RSVP or present the FREE admission ad below.

The Ideal Living Resort & Retirement Expo is going on this weekend at the Ritz-Carton Tysons Corner, McLean, VA. Meet active-adult community developers from the South: attend seminars; and speak with retirement and financial experts. Pictured is a home from a southern community. (2010 Ideal Living Home @ Achasta, Dahlonega, GA)