Buying from women's clothing supplier Project Iris is a noble cause year-round, as the company donates 5 percent of sales to the World Food Program to fight hunger and malnutrition. But during October, the generosity increases, with an additional 10 percent of online sales benefiting the National Breast Cancer Foundation. Choose from a wide selection of V-neck and scoop-neck short- and long-sleeve shirts with original artwork designs, such as this 100 percent cotton Flower Heart ($47). To shop, go to www.projectirisclimbing.com.
