

WHAT'S NEW?

QWIK SHOWER GYM CLASS WIPES

Available at Amazon.com; $1 per packet

The pitch: "The next best thing to a shower."

The skinny: At some point, every parent misses having baby wipes around the house. They work so well for cleaning up your kid's filthy face.

But teenagers and adults need a whole lot more than a Huggies wipe to look and feel clean after an intense workout. Qwik Shower is the answer. Despite the remarkable resemblance to a baby wipe, these are more durable and quite effective. They're bigger, too; at 10-by-12 inches, they're the size of a decent hand towel.

Toss a few packets in your teen's gym bag, and you'll solve the problem of what to do when soccer practice and a school concert are back to back on his schedule. (The usual option — a good dousing of body spray — doesn't remove any of the dirt or grime from play. This is a far better alternative, without the perfume-y smell.)

Because the towels come in individual packets, they won't dry up like baby wipes can. And they can be safely stashed in backpacks, lockers and the car's glove box.

Mary Shedden

