

Gearing up

For a coffee fan's hot spot

My double-shot latte stayed toasty on a two-hour drive thanks to RoadPro's thermal travel mug. This stainless steel, heated cup plugs into your car's cigarette lighter or your computer's USB port, so you can have a warm drink whether you're commuting, on a road trip, or working in an airport lounge.

The 16-ounce cup has a no-drip lid and non-skid base, and it comes with a USB power cord, a 12-volt adapter plug, and a rubber cap that covers the power jack during cleaning. The power jack, located under the handle, may prevent the mug from fitting in some cup holders. Available for $20 from CableOrganizer.com (866-222-0030) or Amazon.com.

KARI BODNARCHUK

