SEPTEMBER IS BABY SAFETY MONTH – CHECK YOUR WINDOW COVERINGS!

The home is a very special place for families, but parents may not be aware that there are hidden hazards that can be potentially dangerous to babies and young children – window coverings are on the top of this list.

According to the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission (CPSC), windows and coverings are one of the top five hidden hazards in the home, causing more than 200 accidental strangulation deaths in window cords among infants and young children since 1990.

To maximize window-cord safety when young children are present, consumers are urged to follow these safety guidelines:

- Install only cordless window coverings in young children's bedrooms and sleeping areas. Replace window blinds, corded shades and draperies manufactured before 2001 with today's safer products.
- Move all cribs, beds, furniture and toys away from windows and window cords, preferably to another wall.
- Keep all window pull cords and inner lift cords out of the reach of children. Make sure that tasseled pull cords are short and continuous-loop cords are permanently anchored to the floor or wall. Make sure cord stops are properly installed and adjusted to limit movement of inner lift cords.
- Lock cords into position whenever horizontal blinds or shades are lowered, including when they come to rest on a windowsill.
